

- Paper
135gsm
- Card
270gsm
- A4
- A3
- Easy to Fold
- Inkjet possible
- Laser NO

Colorplan Stucco

All the inherent beauty and unparalleled qualities of our Colorplan range apply to Colorplan Stucco, they both start life as the same paper, but Colorplan Stucco has something extra, a unique textured surface. The Stucco effect brings a third dimension to the paper. It transforms not only its look but also its feel. The paper's texture, the paper's tactility, subtly influence your perception of its quality and potential. For example two different sheets of paper together rely purely on differences in colour to separate them, but if one has a texture and one doesn't they both come alive on their own merits regardless of colour.

Which do you choose - Colorplan or Colorplan Stucco? To make the choice more difficult there is no price premium for the Stucco texture, simply choose what your mind, or your heart, tells you.

* Acid Free

Bagdad Brown	Ebony	Smoke	Citrine	Mandarin	Pistachio
Bokhara Red	Candy Pink	Emerald	Harvest	New Blue	Pristine White *
Forest	Lavender	Purple	Sapphire	Bright Red	China White *
Azure Blue	Darks Mixed Pack

Mixed Packs

Pastel Mixed Pack	Brights Mixed Pack
Darks Mixed Pack

Papermills first appeared in Italy in 1276 followed by France in 1348. The first English papermill was built in the 15th century.