Parchment

The foremost parchment board available in a beautiful range of colours. Its unique surface pattern gives a visual appeal lacking in so many of today's papers.

The paper is a modern day version of the parchment used thousands of years ago. It looks superb on its own, or why not use it in conjunction with a plain paper, perhaps one of our darker Colorplan colours to give a stunning contrast.

Parchment is the ideal paper for certificates and is one of the most popular choices for restaurant menus.

Although not guaranteed, Parchment has produced some excellent results on inkjet printers, ask for a free sample sheet to see how it performs in your printer.

Marbled

A beautifully clean and crisp paper, our Marbled range is the genuine article. Copied by so many by using a cheap card and printing the marble effect, ours is a true marble incorporated into the sheet as part of the paper making process. Compare the two and there is no comparison - why pay a premium for an inferior product?

Like the Parchment range, Marbled works beautifully in its own right, but why not think about using it in conjunction with a plain paper for a really special effect.

Marbled papers are very popular in the craft market but for many years have been frequently specified by businesses to give an upmarket feel to menus and invitations for example.

Although not guaranteed Marbled card works well in laser printers which are able to accept the heavier weight.

Tropical rainforests are not used to make paper. In Japan one hardwood tree is used every hundred years to make a special paper for use in Shinto religious ceremonies.
